

How to Get the Most From Your HBA Membership

It's Simple...

Ron Harris, Summerwood Inc.
2009 HBA President

Our membership directory and buyers guide is one of the first places builder members go to find qualified sub-contractors. As our industry comes out of this slow building period, builders will undoubtedly go to the directory to seek out contractors to perform much needed work. The best way to set yourself up for new jobs is being a member of the HBA.

Becky Mason, Lenders Title Company
Co-Chairman of Membership Committee

Our membership in the Home Builders Association has given us insight into the building business and how we can better partner with our builder clients and meet their needs. We choose to get involved to let builders know that Lenders Title is here to help them with their business needs.

Associate Member since 1994

Gerry Bailey, MagiKrete

I'm a new member who immediately became active on the Associates Council and exhibited in the 2009 Home Show. By being involved, it allows me to network and build strong relationships. I'll never gain any business by sitting in the corner. The magic word for me and my business is . . . networking!

Associate Member since 2008

Bob Copeland, Royal Overhead Door
Home Show Chairman & Associate State Director

From education opportunities to training and other programs offered by the Local, State and National HBAs, I've found my investment to have been invaluable. As a member, I also have a voice in political issues that affect our building industry through HOME PAC, our Political Action Committee. If you're not a member or, just not actively involved, you're missing out.

Associate Member since 1971
